【解答例1】

I agree that AI should not be banned in schools. AI is not completely bad, and this problem is not black and white. AI can help students find and collect information quickly. However, students should be taught how to use AI effectively. Schools should also make clear rules to guide students when using AI. If students use AI properly, it can be a powerful learning tool. So, AI should not be banned, but used in a smart and responsible way.

【解答例2】

I disagree with using AI in schools because it is a kind of cheating. Students must learn to find information by themselves and think about how to use it. With AI, students do not have to think hard or do much work. They only copy the AI results and say it is their own work. This means students are not really learning anything at all. If students keep doing this, they will not be able to think for themselves. Therefore, AI should be completely banned in schools.
